

ATTACHMENT SOUGHT IN ACTION BROUGHT IN COURT IN EATON

EATON, Ohio, Sept. 18.—Attachment and garnishee is sought in a common pleas court action brought by C. F. Mendenhall against Aaron Neel, non-resident of Ohio. Recovery of $800 and notes is sought.

Mendenhall claims he bought from Neel a garage in Ridgeville, Ind., for $1,971.50 and that Neel represented to him that the garage equipment was free of incumbrances. Mendenhall avers he gave notes for the purchase price, with mortgage upon chattels on his farm in Jefferson township. To meet the payment of $800 of the amount he was forced to have a public sale of chattels, he avers.

Mendenhall claims Neel deceived him as to the garage not being incumbered, as Mendenhall avers bills for $700 have been presented to him since he contracted to buy the business. He believes the indebtedness will run as high as $1,200. He asks the court to annul all chattel mortgages and that the notes he gave be returned to him.

Mendenhall seeks to garnishee the money held by C. J. VanAusdal from sale of chattels upon which Neel is said to claim he held a mortgage.

Settle Suit.
Suit brought by C. B. Mause against Norman and Mae Baker, involving a note for $436.75, was settled and dismissed from common pleas court.

Reopen Methodist Church.
After completion of extensive interior improvements and exterior repairs where needed, St. Paul Methodist Episcopal church was reopened Sunday with appropriate services. Sermons by former pastors of the church featured the services.

The Rev. W. A. Wiant, of Springfield, superintendent of the Springfield district, Methodist conference, preached a sermon at the morning services, while the Rev. Earle M. Ellsworth, of Marion, Ind., preached a sermon as a part of the evening services. Both are former pastors of the church.

The Rev. V. E. Busler, who has just taken up his work as new pastor of the church, presided morning and evening and conducted exercises appropriate to the occasion.

cupied at one time by Germany and later captured from the imperial German government by the Japanese. Each one of the first two of the treaties has been ratified by three of the signers, the United States, Great Britain and Japan having notified the other powers of their acceptance of the pacts. Neither France nor Italy has acted upon the pacts, Italy waiting for France to act and France waiting for the reconvenement of her parliament the middle of October.

While none of the three powers who have already ratified the agreements have made any amendments or reservations, and it is not thought that France will make any changes, Italy has withheld final action until France has made her definite decision. Owing to the geographical positions of the two countries, the government at Rome feels it necessary to the welfare of the country that any reservations or amendments made by France must be claimed by that government. It is thought in some circles here that the three great naval powers already agreeing to the treaties will carry them out regardless of the action of France and Italy, but officials emphatically stated that the acceptance

OHIO FARM FEDERATION RECEIVES ORDERS FOR PURCHASE OF 1,250 HEAD OF CATTLE

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 18.—Orders for more than 1,250 head of cattle to be purchased co-operatively for the feedlots of Ohio have been received at the office of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation. Nine counties have entered into the project up to the present time, with Clark county ordering the largest number of cattle, 332 head.

Scott O'Day, of Madison county, representative of Ohio livestock men on the ranges, left last week with orders for more than half the amount mentioned. The additional orders have come in since that time. Mr. O'Day will be in Colorado and adjoining states until all cattle ordered by Ohio livestock men for co-operative purchase are forwarded. Some cattle probably will be brought in as late as November, although all orders must be in by Oct. 20.

Co-operative marketing of wool in Ohio is best serving the farmer who is producing a quality product, according to Mark Smith, wool marketing director of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation. He states that those who inspect wool lined up in the Columbus warehouse ready for co-operative sale are looking in the main at wool which is carefully produced and properly prepared for market.

Of the more than two and a half million pounds of wool that have been received at the producers' warehouse, all of the medium wools have been graded, and grading of fine wools is being completed. Recent sales are said to mark the end of the seasonal period, during which no sales were made.

The treatment of seed potatoes with formaldehyde solutions is recommended highly as a disease preventative measure by the farm crops department at Ohio State university. This treatment, specialists declare, will help to check at least two of the most common potato diseases, scab and black scurf.

A simple method for treatment suggested by the department is as follows: Prepare the solution in a barrel or tub, using one pint of strong formaldehyde to each 30 gallons of water. Place the uncut potatoes in porous sacks or crates, in which they are dipped in the formaldehyde solution and permitted to stand for two hours.

When the potatoes are removed from the solution they should be permitted to dry slowly for an hour and a half in the containers, or placed in a heap on the floor and covered with disinfected sacks. They then should be spread out to dry thoroughly.

Farmer Bureau members in Ohio are advised that the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation will be held Dec. 11 to 14, in Chicago, and that the Morrison hotel has been named as headquarters.

Farm Bureau members from Ohio made up the largest delegation in attendance from any one state at the annual meeting in Atlanta, Ga., a year ago. Ohio farmers will try to duplicate that performance again this year, and many farmers already have signified their intentions of attending.

Greater appropriations for investigation leading to control measures of the European corn borer are favored by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. The executive committee of the federation at its last meeting, endorsed the present quarantine and control measures of federal and state agencies, but urged that funds sufficient to provide for the corn borers' control be taken.

The corn borer already is present in a number of counties in northern Ohio, bordering Lake Erie, and the spread of the pest is threatened, it is pointed out.

The use of legume crops in the state is gaining slightly over the use of fertilizers, census statistics show. In Ohio, according to figures, 66 per cent more legumes were grown in 1920 than in 1910, as compared to an increase in the use of fertilizers for the same period of 57 per cent.

The amount of money expended for fertilizers in the years 1920 and 1910 was $13,000,000, and $4,000,000, respectively.

These babies will bring comfort and happiness to the home. They will clutch at the heart strings, swaying all before them. Their little voices are so sweet, with just the right tone, not too loud, and yet with sufficient volume to bring joy and contentment to all who hear them.

These babies are of noble parentage, well rounded out, not large enough to appear out of place in company, yet big enough to defend themselves in a drawing room.

They are not what you would term the decided blonde or brunette type. In fact, their color leans more toward a pretty chestnut hue. Don't think these babies would be expensive to support after once arranged for, because really they are not human as you and I, although they sometimes seem so, for they are the famous
